EARTHQUAKE RESPONSE IN ALEPPO AND LATTAKIA

On February 2023, a terrible earthquake hit Türkiye and Syria and killed more than 55.000 and injured another 10.000, leaving 8.8 million Syrians affected by the destruction. Seven months after, recovery and rebuilding are still taking place as people work to reconstruct their lives while struggling with a twelve-year conflict, fuel shortages, and economic recession. The earthquakes exacerbated these challenges and put even more pressure on public systems leaving the population in urgent need of humanitarian assistance.

Immediately after the earthquake, AVSI had worked to provide life saving assistance to the affected population in Aleppo, by distributing essential and life saving items, food parcels and hot meals and providing both medical assistance and treatments and psychological support.

Thanks to Foundations, private and institutional donors, AVSI has been able to provide support to 2,260 vulnerable households (11,789 vulnerable people).
